Pershing

MONTHLY FACTSHEET

all data as at 31st October 2023

PORTFOLIO OBJECTIVES AND STRATEGY

The Wise Balanced Model Portfolio is designed for clients who are looking for a total return in line with the MSCI PIMFA Balanced index over a 5 to 10 year period. We aim to achieve this by investing in a select and focussed list of funds (unit trusts, investment trusts and OEICs), with diversification across geography, asset class and investment style. These funds invest in real assets, such as company shares (listed both in the UK and overseas), property, fixed interest and cash. The Portfolio is managed so that 50%-80% is invested in 'medium' risk assets, such as shares and property. 20%-50% is held in assets defined as 'moderate', 'low' or 'minimal' risk, which are mainly comprised of fixed interest (UK government and higher quality company debt) and cash, and any remaining balance up to 10% can be held in higher risk assets, such as shares in specific countries and industries. We consider the portfolio to be suitable for those willing to adopt a balanced risk profile.

All data used on this factsheet is supplied by Financial Express. Rounding may result in charts and tables not adding up to 100% in displayed data. Performance is based on total returns on a bid-to-bid basis, net of UK dividend tax credits and is calculated referencing a model portfolio. Actual portfolio statistics may differ because of investment performance, cash movements, transaction costs and the timing of sales and purchases within the portfolio. MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Global equities were lower in October by almost -2.5% with UK equities down more than most other markets, losing over -4% for the month. Large cap banks such as HSBC, Barclays and NatWest were the most significant contributors to negative returns from the UK equity market. Investors speculated over whether banks would be able to maintain revenues if interest rates have indeed peaked with competitive and political pressure requiring them to increase funding costs, adding to their woes. Both factors squeeze margins and with the prospect of sluggish economic growth share prices in the banking sector have suffered. In addition, Natwest Group have also been battling specific issues around the removal of banking services from Nigel Farage and poor communication on the matter subsequently. This has forced the resignation of Natwest's CEO, Alison Rose and caused further disquiet amongst shareholders.

There are potentially attractive returns from the Banking sector going forward with compelling share price to asset ratios and yields. However, both dividends and earnings also look as though they are either at or nearing cyclical peaks so one also needs to be wary of the possibility of some degradation in the absolute fundamentals especially considering the above factors.

Listed UK Real Estate was also lower albeit by roughly half that of the broader UK equity market. We have written at length in these commentaries on our positive view of listed real estate valuations despite the many challenges for the sector. Our position here remains unchanged.

Finally, in fixed income, markets were broadly lower with weakness from both rising interest rates and declining risk appetite. This affected securities across the risk spectrum from UK Gilts to high yield. Although, it is worth noting that shorter maturity bonds delivered positive returns as near-term interest rates actually declined i.e. rates over 1-3 years as opposed to overnight rates set by the Bank of England. We continue to be constructive on particular parts of the fixed income market such as short maturity investment grade and the high end of sub investment grade credit. This area is currently benefitting from relatively high rates whilst having limited sensitivity to changes in both interest rate and sentiment towards risk compared to equivalent longer-term bonds.

In the Balanced model portfolio, returns were lower by -2%. This was in line with the MSCI PIMFA Balanced index which was also down by -2%. Whilst short-dated investment grade credit strategies such as Vontobel TwentyFour Absolute Return Credit had a positive month, this was more than offset by equity exposure. Leading the contribution to negative returns was JOHCM UK Equity Income which has a significant weighting towards large cap banks.

Weak performance from assets in October has improved our expectation of future returns across asset classes having been a little more cautious at the beginning of August. This led to us reducing exposure to equities and longer dated government bonds in particular. With this improvement in valuations, we will look to identify which areas we believe offer attractive returns and allocate accordingly.

ASSET ALLOCATION

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Portfolio returns from the Wise Investment Model Portfolio Service will be subject to investment market fluctuations and there is no guarantee that the portfolio objectives, including any income targets, will be achieved. Where income is received as dividends, these will be automatically reinvested in the Model Portfolio, which may result in the Model Portfolio returns being higher than what a client portfolio can actually achieve. The performance will be reduced by the withdrawal of income and the impact of the ongoing charges and portfolio transaction costs. The charges can vary. Prices of funds and the income from them may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount originally invested. Consequently, an investment into this portfolio should be considered for a 5 to 10 year period. The funds may invest in higher-yielding or non-investment grade bonds. The funds may hold investments denominated in currencies other than sterling. Changes in exchange rates will cause the value of these investments and the income from them to rise or fall. The funds can use derivatives for investment purposes. These instruments can be more volatile than investment in equities or bonds.
